

Hearing continued December 30, 1941.

(Exhibit No. 2, being contract of sale heretofore referred to, offered in evidence)

CLARENCE FOX, a witness produced on the part of the Complainant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

By Mr. Storm:

Q Will you give your name, Mr. Fox?

A Clarence.

Q You know the home in which your sister lives?

A Yes, sir, I am very well acquainted.

Q Will you describe the home to the Court, please?

A It is a frame house. Of course it has a cellar. Two-story house. Has a rather large attic and a frame house - everything is wood, you see. There is a long stairway exposed to the weather and continually rotting down, of course.

Q (The Court) What do you mean by a two-story house? Is it a full two-story house?

A No, it is a basement and another story. It wouldn't ordinarily be called a two-story house I guess. It would be called a one-story house.

Q You spoke of upstairs; what do you mean? They don't live in the basement?

A No, sir, although it has been lived in already, years ago. Some years ago we lived in there - mother, brother and myself. We fixed it up with a concrete floor and some partitions.

Q Then it has one story above ground, and what is above that?

A Well, an attic, I think. I guess at the highest point it is 6 or 7 feet from the comb to the floor.

Q Are there any rooms fixed up there for living rooms?

A No, sir, there aren't any rooms up there.
